

WHO IS WHO

Twentieth Annual World Affairs Conference April 10-14,1967

JOSEPH W. ANGELL, JR.

Chief, USAF Historical Division Liaison Office, Headquarters USAF, Washington, D.C., was awarded the Exceptional Civilian Service Medal and Award, the highest performance recognition the Air Force accords. In addition > to other academic positions, Mr. Angell has been a member of the faculties of Claremoht Graduate School and Yale University. His publications include THE THOMAS MANN READER '(1950), chapters in THE ARMY AIR FORCE IN WORLD WAR II (1951), articles in THE ATLANTIC on "Guided Missiles Could Have Won," and numerous articles and reviews fin professional magazines and general publications. He has lectured on military subjects at the Air War College, the Air Command and Staff School, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the University of Colorado, and elsewhere. In 1958 he became a member of the Board of Advisors of the American Humanities Center of Amherst, Mass. He has also served as co-moderator of the weekly NBC-TV panel INSIGHT.

MARTIN K. BAKER

Has worked as a bricklayer, truck driver, counter man, manual laborer, camp counselor, clerk, librarian, shoe salesman, intramural sports coordinator, exploration geologist, laboratory assistant, insurance claims adjuster, track coach, geology teacher, mining geologist, assistant professor of education, community organizer, and vice-president of a labor union. His formal education at Carleton College (B.A.) and the University of Chicago (M.A.) was supplemented by instruction in Topographic Computing, Liquid Oxygen Generation, Airborne Training, Chemical, Bacteriological, and Radiological Warfare, and instruction at the U.S. Army Artillery and Missile Officer Candidate School. Recent activities concern founding the South Suburban Civil Rights Committee; joining the Chicago Committee to Support the Delano Farm Workers, the Welfare Union Number Six, and the Council on Social Revolution; advising the Together One Community, the Chicago Freedom Movement, and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; and writing a number of articles, mostly in the press.

RUSSELL BAKER

Essayist, has written the column "Observer" for the New York Times editorial page since July, 1962. Mr. Baker's articles have appeared in THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, THE LADIES HOME JOURNAL, HOLIDAY, AMERICAN HOME, SHOW, PAGEANT, READER'S DIGEST, THE NEW YORK TIMES MAGAZINE, etc. His books include, AN AMERICAN IN WASHINGTON (1961), NO CAUSE FOR PANIC (1964), and ALL THINGS CONSIDERED (1965). A native of Virginia, who was educated at Johns Hopkins University, Mr. Baker spent two years (1943-45) in the Naval Aviation branch of the U.S.N.R. From 1947 through 1954 he was associated with THE BALTIMORE SUN as a police reporter, general assignments reporter, rewriterman, London correspondent and White House correspondent. In 1954 he joined the NEW YORK TIMES Washington Bureau; he covered the White House, Congress, the State Department, national politics, the Eisenhower Presidential campaign of 1956, the Nixon-Kennedy Presidential campaigns of 1960 and Eisenhower's 1959 trip to Europe, the Near East and India. He also covered Kennedy's 1961 trip to Europe for meetings with DeGaulle and Khrushchev, as well as the 1961 Geneva Conference on Laos.

ARTHUR WHITING BARBER

Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Department of Defense for internal security affairs since 1962, is a native of Meriden, Conn. After receiving his degree in physics from Harvard in 1950, Mr. Barber served as a physicist with the Air Force Cambridge Research Center until 1961. The following year he was associated With the Mitre Corporation, a position he left when he joined the Department of Defense.

TAHSEEN M. BASHEER

Acting Director, Arab States Delegation to the United Nations, was formerly associated with the Consulate General of the United Arab Republic. Mr. Basheer holds the B.S. degree from the University of Alexandria, and has done graduate work at Princeton and Harvard, receiving his M.A. degree in Political Economy from the latter institution. He has taught political economy at the University of Alexandria. From 1956 to 1958 he was spokesman and Information Officer for the Egyptian Permanent Mission to the United Nations.

THOMAS BELL

Is involved with the Medicare program, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, a position he assumed last year after serving as Welfare Director of the state of Colorado. He was educated at Los Angeles State College, and at the University of Southern California, and then worked in Plumas and Kern Counties as Welfare Director. His services earned him the Good Government Award of the Junior Chamber of Commerce (1961) and an award for distinguished public service offered by the American Society of Public Administrators (1962).

WALDEMAR BESSON

Vice-Chancellor of the University of Constance, has been involved with the reforming and reorganizing of German universities. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the second German TV channel in Mainz, in which capacity he heads the Committee for Public Affairs. He contributes regularly to DIE ZEIT and DIE FRANKFURTER ALLGEMEINE ZEITUNG, and is a regular radio and television commentator on the Bavarian Broadcasting System. He has published books on Franklin D. Roosevelt's political terminology, American foreign policy from Roosevelt to Kennedy, the structure of temporary World politics, the downfall of the Weimar Republic, and Friedrich Ebert. He was educated in political science, modern history, and English literature at the University of Tübingen, as an exchange student (1950-1951) at the University of California at Santa Barbara, at the University of Grenoble (France), and his Ph. D. is from the University of Tübingen. He taught modern European and American history at several German universities before accepting his present assignment.

HARRY BLUM

Was educated as an engineer at Cornell and Syracuse Universities. In 1950 he joined the Rome Air Development Center (Air Force) at Rome, N.Y., where he engaged in research and development work in signal analysis, large-scale electronics systems, information and detection theory, and operations analysis. In 1958, he became a Group Organizer and Leader, Large-scale military systems and operations analysis with strong "political" overtones, at the SHAPE Technical Center in The Hague. From 1960 to the present he has been associated with the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories in Bedford, Mass., where he is an Individual Researcher in Physical Science investigating theoretical concepts and mechanical formulation of visual shape and general perceptual processing. Mr. Blum is the author of a number of publications, technical treatises and symposia proceedings.

ANIMABOSE

Acting Director of World Relations at the office of the National Council of Churches, New York, has lectured in Germany, England* Holland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Erie, Ceylon, and the United States, and has been a delegate to the World YWCA (1954-1960), to the Ecumenical World Council of Churches (1960), and to the European Youth Assembly (1961). More formal work includes service as a Lecturer in History at Loreto College (Calcutta), as a Dorothy Canfield Lecturer (England), as Program Director on the Indo-American Society (Calcutta), as staff-member of the Western Civilization Program of the University of Kansas, as Honorary General Secretary of the National Council of Women in India, and as Honorary Senior Secretary of the Student Christian Movement (India). She has served the YWCA (in Calcutta) in several capacities, and has been active with the Federation of University Women (Calcutta). She studied Sanskrit, English, and history at Allahbad University, and did graduate work in London and Holland.

GEOFFREY BRADY

Now First Secretary at the Australian Embassy in Washington, D.C., came to this post after representing Australia in Djakarta, London, and Seoul. Before entering foreign service, he served in the Prime Minister's Department (1953-1954) and in the Department of External Affairs (1955 and following). Born in 1929, Mr. Brady received his M. A. at the University of Melbourne.

IRVING BRANMAN

Oenophile, now teaches speech at CCNY, where he is interested in the teaching of English as a foreign language. Previous professional assignments include the presidency of a cooperative community, leading square and folk dances, directing the Cooperative Recreation Workshop Association, and service in the Western Pacific during the Second World War as a member of the United States Air Force. He was educated at CCNY and Columbia, from which he received his doctorate, and. has been a Fulbright Professor of English Language at the American College for Girls (Istanbul, Turkey), a Fulbright Coordinator of English Language Training (Ecuador), a supervisor of language training at Bennington, the University of Colorado, and Southern Methodist, and language training lecturer for VISTA trainees at the University of Colorado. He has three children.

MONROE BUSH

As Executive Director of the Population Reference Bureau and Consultant to the Old Dominion Foundation, directs supervision of special programs in Virginia in the fields of education, resource management, mental health, and the fine arts. He has published numerous articles on conservation and resource development in SPORTS ILLUSTRATED, THE LIVING WILDERNESS, THE LAND, AMERICAN FORESTS, THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY, NATIONAL PARKS MAGAZINE, and elsewhere, and he contributes a monthly Column to AMERICAN FORESTS. He has served on a score of boards and committees concerned with conservation, community affairs, and church affairs—with present membership on the Board of Trustees of the Greater Washington Educational Television Association, the Board of Directors of the Central Educational Television Corporation, The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission of the Community Advisors of Equal Employment, the Board of Directors of the Washington Performing Arts Society, the Executive Committee of the Washington Home Rule Committee, the Executive Board of the Boy Scouts of America, as a member of numerous religious organizations, and as a member of the Board of Directors of the Friends of the National Zoo.

CHARLES BUTCHER

President of the Butcher Polish Co., Maiden, Mass., was born in 1916. He attended Harvard, majoring in theoretical economics. From 1939-41 he was business manager and teacher at St. Mark's School,- Southboro, Mass. During the war years, he was chosen and trained for both the English Medical Unit and the China Medical Unit, but neither group saw service. After the war he worked for the ATLANTIC as a proofreader and indexer, and. from 1947-51, he was a creative printer with Lincoln and Smith Press in Boston. In 1951 he became Executive Vice President and Treasurer of The Butcher Polish Co. From 1958-1963 he served as President and Trustee of The Buckingham School, and in 1966, he undertook the Presidencies of The Kalliro-scope Corp., and The Lazy Eight.

RODNEY H. CLURMAN

Is President of Community Development Associates International, a New York and Washington based firm concerned with educational, political, and public affairs as well as urban development and communications. He is also Executive Secretary of the World Food and Population Crisis Committee, an international group attempting to aid Northern India. During his five years with NBC television, he held such positions as Associate Producer of the Tex and Jinx Show and Assistant to the Head of NBC News. His numerous assignments in urban affairs were in association with the Washington Action for Youth, the Office of the Attorney General, the Community Action Program of the Office of Economic Opportunity, the Manpower Commission of the City of New York, and VISTA. ;

CARYL F. CONNER

Now Special Projects Officer for the Office of Education, lives in Washington D. C. He was formerly Managing Editor of AMERICAN EDUCATION, a Consultant to John Gardner, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, a Speechwriter for John Connor, Secretary of Commerce, the editor of several weekly newspapers in the San Francisco Bay Area, and Director of the Washington office of Joseph Napolitan Associates—a firm which runs political campaigns and takes political polls for Democratic candidates nationwide.

ERNEST T. DIXON, JR.

Is now President of Philander Smith College (Little Rock, Arkansas), which enrolls some 975 students and is one of thirty-three institutions which derives partial support from the United Negro College Fund. He was previously a staff member of the Board of Education of the Methodist Church (Nashville), where he was interested primarily in matters pertaining to rural churches. He serves as Chairman of the West Texas Methodist Conference Board for Ministerial Training and Qualifications, as a member of the Board of Directors of the Advisory Council of the Arkansas Association for Mental Health, the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the St. Vincent Infirmary School of Practical Nursing, and the Metropolitan YWCA.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Is read four times a week in 160 newspapers, and has also written for THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, LIFE, LOOK, and many other magazines. He created "The State of the Nation" column for the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR, and he appears often on radio and television. Since joining the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR in 1924, he became Chief of its Washington Bureau (1940-1953), and then headed the NEW YORK TRIBUNE'S Washington office. He has written his column since 1955. He has also served as Chief Information Director for the Marshall Plan (Paris, 1949-1951), and has participated in numerous government conferences in Europe, Africa, South America, and the Far East. He is a past president of the Overseas Writers Club, and has received the George Arents Award for excellence in journalism. He holds honorary degrees from Dartmouth College and Principia College.

ALLEN DRURY

Is the author of ADVISE AND CONSENT (1959.), A SHADE OF DIFFERENCE (1962), and A SENATE JOURNAL (1963). He obtained writing experience as an editor of the TULARE (California) BEE and the BAKERSFIELD CALIFORNIAN, as a member of the senate Staff of United Press, as a free-lance correspondent, and as an editor and writer for PATHFINDER •MAGAZINE, the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, the NEW YORK TIMES, and the READER'S DIGEST. He has received numerous awards for his writing, including the Pulitzer Prize for fiction (1960). He holds a Bachelor's Degree from Stanford University (1939) and an Honorary Doctor of Literature from Rollins College (1961).

CHRISTOPHER H.D. EVERETT

First Secretary of the British Embassy attended Oxford University from 1953-57, where he studied classical literature and philosophy. In 1957 he joined the British Foreign Service and studied Arabic until 1959. In 1959 he served with the British Embassy in Lebanon, and in 1961 he joined the foreign office in London, where he was attached to the personnel department. In 1963 Mr. Everett came to Washington, D. C. to serve as Private Secretary to the British Ambassador, and in 1965 he became First Secretary of the British Embassy in Washington dealing with Middle Eastern affairs.

HENRY FAIRLIE

Is a distinguished British political commentator, educated at Oxford University, who has contributed many articles to all the maior British newspaper and periodicals. He has just completed a major study of British politics in 1950, or. which a book will be published this fall Mr Fairlie has been residing in Washington D.C., for the last year, during which time he has contributed to several American publications, such as THE NEW YORK TIMES, THE WASHINGTON POST, and COMMENTARY. He has also continued to write for various British journals.

ELIZABETH FARMER

Research Assistant to Walter Lippmann since 196), is a White House correspondent and on employee of THE WASHINGTON POST. A graduate of Radcliffe, Mrs. Farmer worked for the Department of State in the Intelligence Research section on German and Austrian political affairs (1951-54). After a brief retirement she returned to the State Department, part-time, 1958-59. In 1960 she worked for the Democratic National Committee producing material for speeches and the television debates during the Kennedy campaign.

GERALD MASON FEIGEN, M.D.

Is President of Generalists, Inc., San Francisco; Chairman of the Board of Shade Tree Corp.; Secretary-Treasurer of the Reporter Broadcasting Corp.; Vice-President of Ramparts Publishing Corp.; and Vice-President of the San Francisco Actors Workshop. He is also a commentator on Station KPFA, a columnist for the Sun-Reporter, Travel Editor of RAMPARTS Magazine, Associate in Surgery at Stanford University Medical School, and Chief of Proctology at Mt. Zion Hospital and Medical Center. Dr. Feigen served as a consultant to the California Department of Corrections and the U.S. Public Health Hospital. In 1961 he was recipient of the Citizen of the Year Award for work in Race Relations and minor awards in painting, sculpture, and documentary film. Dr. Feigen has participated in anthropological expeditions to Haiti and South Polynesia; in 1966 he made a ceremonial firewalk. •

HERBERT LEWIS FINK

Chairman of the Art Department, Southern Illinois University and Design Consultant and Designer, has won many awards—the Chaloner Prize (1951-52, 1952-53), the Tiffany Award (1958), the Ford Foundation Purchase Award (1959), a Guggenheim Fellowship Grant (1965-66), and Purchase Prizes offered by American Graphic Arts (1959), the Library of Congress (1959), The Philadelphia Museum of Art (1959), the College Print Annual (1959), the Midwest Exhibition (Omaha, 1958), the American Color Print Society (1959), and the Art Director Annual (1959). He was educated at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, the Art Students League (New York), the Rhode Island School of Design (B. F. A.), and Yale University (M. F. A.). While remaining in academic life, with positions at Yale University, Rhode Island School of Design, the University of Kansas, the Albright Art School (Buffalo), and Southern Illinois University, Mr. Fink has also served as Design Consultant for numerous firms. As a member of the 346th Regiment, he won three battle stars and a Purple Heart during the Second World War.

JOSEPH FINK

Is a Psychologist and Human Factors Senior Scientist, employed by Systems Development Corporation, Santa Monica, California. With SDC and RAND, he has been studying and implementing programs on the simulation of behavior in synthetic environments, and he is now beginning a three-year project on the use of human resources as part of the problem of manpower adjustment. He worked previously as a Director of the Displaced Persons Camp and Migration Operation for the American Joint Distribution Committee and UNRRA in North Africa, France, Germany, and Israel. He has also served on a military training program in Japan, Okinawa, and the Philippines. Among his interests are building construction, science-fiction, inventing, and the propagation of rotational and temperate existence.

GENE FOWLER

Has said that he has been a teenage night club comic, an infantryman in the Okinawan jungle, a gunman, a convict, a computer programmer, a travelled man, a stay-at-home, and a shaman to tribe recently come. He has published two books of poetry, SHAMAN SONGS and FIELD STUDIES, from which he has read extensively in poetry readings and happenings throughout the country. Of his poetry, he writes, "Only Chaucer, Shakespeare, and Pound have approached what I want to do." Buckminster Fuller has added, "In all my life, I have found no more brilliant, no more naturally articulate thinker than Gene Fowler." "I am gambling my whole life," Fowler writes, "on the assumption that I have a sensitivity to share and a talent for structuring the poem in which to shore it. . . . One can't learn about a way of life by faking it. It is necessary to believe that it is the only life there will be."

HILARY FOWLER

Is a folksinger and poet, author of MIND DANCES, now in its second printing. She is a street poet, the only woman in San Francisco who writes street poems, and she says that she and her husband, Gene Fowler "live mostly on miracles." The Fowlers have given readings throughout the country and have done odd jobs of writing and editing, but Hilary Fowler offers to write poems spontaneously for "food, pocket change, a smile, or anything of value."

R. BUCKMINSTER FULLER

Engineer, designer, inventor, is perhaps best known for originating the geodesic structure. Born in Milton, Mass., in 1895, Mr. Fuller has, among his research and administrative positions, been president of the Stockade Building System (1922-27), founder and president of the 4-D Company (1927-32), founder, director, and chief engineer of the Dymaxion Corporation (1932-35), assistant to the director of research and development, Phelps-Dodge Corporation (1936-38), technical consultant to FORTUNE magazine (1948-50), special assistant to the director of the Foreign Economics Administration (1942-46), chairman of the board and administrative engineer for Dymaxion Dwelling Machines (1944-46), and president of Synergetics, Inc. He has been awarded more than a dozen honorary doctorates from distinguished U. S. colleges and universities, and has been featured in cover stories in Time and the Saturday Review, as well as having been the subject of a New Yorker profile in 1966. Professor of Design Science at Southern Illinois University, who holds many other distinguished positions, Mr. Fuller is the author of several books, some of the more recent being IDEAS AND INTEGRITIES and THE UNFINISHED EPIC OF INDUSTRIALIZATION. Most recently, as the Architect for the U.S. Exhibit at Montreal's EXPO '67. Mr. Fuller designed the 200-foot dome that will house the U.S. exhibit. He has also been commissioned to build an entirely new city in Japan.

JOHN HARRISON GAYER

Is now Consultant and Manager, interested in Communication Satellite Market Development. His professional experience has been as a Consulting Radio Engineer, working in many capacities — as Electronics Instructor (Harvard, 1942-3), Director of the Harrisburg Radio and Electronics School (1943-5), Senior Electrical Engineer, Salem Engineering Company (1945-6), Electronic Design Engineer, Douglas Aircraft (1946-7), Chief, Communications Branch, U.S. Military Government (Berlin, 1948-51), Professional Consulting Engineer (Washington, 1951-3), Member, International Frequency Registration Board, and International Telecommunication Union (assignments carrying through the present). He was educated at the University of Nebraska, Harvard University, and MIT, with subsequent specialized instruction in Rocket Theory, Economics and Finance, and Specialized Electronics Studies (Southern Signal Corps School). He was Chairman and Honorary Chairman of the International Television Symposium (Montreux Switzerland, 1961-1965), and has been President and Honorary President of the International Amateur Radio Club (1962-5).

ROBERT GOULARD

Professor in the School of Aeronautics, Astronautics, and Engineering Sciences at Purdue, is a native of France. He received training in Aeronautical Engineering in Paris and later received his Ph.D. in Aeronautical Engineering from Purdue University. From 1950 to 1951 he was associated with Bendix S.A. in Paris, the next year with Canadair, Ltd. in Montreal, from 1952 to 1954 with the Fisher Body Division of General Motors in Detroit. Dr. Goulard was a Visiting Fellow at JILA in 1964-65. He serves as a consultant to General Motors Defense Research Laboratories, AGARD-NATO, the Institute of Defense Analysis; and NASA-MARSHALL SFC. He is also Associate Editor of the Journal of Quantitative Spectroscopy and Radiative Transfer, and of the International Journal of Heat and Mass Transfer.

LESLIE CLAUDE GREEN

A native of London, graduated from the University of London (LL.B., First Class Honors) in 1941. During the war, he served in the Intelligence Corps as translator and later as a Deputy Military Prosecutor with G.H.Q. (India). From 1946 to 1960 he was associated with the University of London, the London Institute of World Affairs and the International Law Association; in 1956 he was awarded the Grotius Medal for Services to International Law. From 1960-65 he was Professor of International Law, Dean of the Faculty of Law, and Director of the Institute of Advanced Legal Studies of the University of Singapore. In 1965 he was appointed Professor of Political Science at the University of Alberta, a position he now holds. His publications include INTERNATIONAL LAW THROUGH THE CASES (2nd ed. 1959) and Chen's INTERNATIONAL LAW OF RECOGNITION, which he edited. Professor Green has lectured at universities in Sweden, France, Yugoslavia, Holland, Germany, Ethiopia, Israel, India, Australia, New Zealand and the United States.

CHARLES F. HAMPTON

Associate Professor of General Education at Ferris State College, Big Rapids, Michigan, has had twenty years of active involvement in Michigan Democratic politics — during which time he ran for Congress and for a position at the State Constitutional Convention, and served as an alternate delegate at the 1944 National Convention. He has taught at Olivet College (Michigan), Albion College (Michigan), Michigan State University, and the State University of New York, and he has also worked in Advertising Research, Sales, and Public Relations.

RICHARD A. HANMER

Is an inventor and designer who was a graduate of Harvard University, Harvard Law School, and the Harvard School of Design. After working in film production for some time he became associated with Geometries, Inc. of Cambridge, Mass. Recently a large portion of his activity has been devoted to independent work as an inventor and designer for The Lazy Eight.

EDWARD HIGBEE

Geographer and educator, is a native of New York City who received his B.A. and M.A. degrees from Wisconsin and his doctorate from Johns Hopkins in 1949. From 1940 to 1948 Mr. Higbee was Soil Conservationist and Senior Agronomist in the Department of Agriculture; in 1962 he began teaching in the Department of Geography at the University of Rhode Island. He was Director of Research Study in Agriculture for the Twentieth Century Fund, 1961-63; from 1964-66 he was director of Research Study, America's Public Environment, for the Twentieth Century Fund. He has also done research in conservation and land utilization and urban policy in conservation at the Brookings Institution. A member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Geographical Society, the Soil Science Society of America, and Sigma Xi, among other organizations, Mr. Higbee is the author of many books and articles, including AMERICAN OASIS, THE LAND AND ITS USES (1957), AMERICAN AGRICULTURAL GEOGRAPHY, RESOURCES, AND CONSERVATION (1958), THE SQUEEZED-CITIES (1960), and FARMS AND FARMERS IN AN URBAN AGE (1963).

BENNY HOCHMAN

An Equipment Man for the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, received national fame in January 1961, when he was honored as the principal subject of Ralph Edwards' "This Is Your Life" — an honor growing out of Mr. Hockman's Boy Scout work, zoo promotion, junior baseball, chairmanship of the Voice of Democracy, service on the Sidney (Nebraska) City Council, the Sidney Junior Chamber of Commerce, the JC Future Leaders of the World, the United Fund, the Kiwanis Club, and the Fort Sidney Colonels (a popular singing group). He is also a Sidney High School Band Booster, and travelled last year with the Band to the Rose Bowl Parade. He is the 1,852nd person in the world to receive permanent Jaycee International Senate membership. His enthusiasm for community service stems from his gratitude at being saved from a concentration camp, where he lost his family — gratitude which manifests itself in service, freely rendered, to the country which adopted him.

MELVIN HOWARDS

Associate Professor of Education at Northeastern University, has initiated many programs in connection with the Reading Department, which he heads — The Reading Information Center of Massachusetts (1964), a Negro Scholarship Program and Intern Training Program (1964), a VISTA reading program (1965), a Summer Institute for reading instruction offered to disadvantaged Boston high school students (1965), a Youth Education Program for high school drop-outs (1966), and a Training Program for non-professionals. He has published articles in numerous professional journals, and has held consultancies in many parts of the United States. He was educated at Drake University (B.A.), Teacher's College, Columbia University (M.A.), and at New York University (Ph.D.). Before coming to Northeastern University, he worked in the public schools of New Jersey, Iowa, and Michigan, at Western Michigan University, at Upper Iowa University, and at the New York University Reading Institute.

J. KIMANZI ILAKO

Is now Counsellor/Charge d'Affaires, representing the Republic of Kenya in Washington, D.C. He received his education in Kenya and in Great Britain, and in 1961 joined the Kenya Foreign Service, which he has served both in field and in Secretariat. In 1964 he was transferred to the Diplomatic Service and posted at the Kenya Embassy in London, where he served as Deputy Head of Mission.

JAMES AVERY JOYCE

British author, barrister and economist, is an internationally known lecturer and educator. A graduate of the University of London, Mr. Joyce holds degrees in economics and political science, law, and history. He has served as a visiting lecturer at many universities in the U.S., has been secretary of the International Association for Labor Legislation, and has served as a special correspondent of League of Nations Assemblies in Geneva. Since WW II he has attended most of the UN Assemblies in N.Y.; he has served on the staff of the ILO in Geneva, and as a consultant to the UN

Economic and Social Council. As a barrister-at-law, his broadcasts on the BBC and other contributions to the everyday study of law have been recognized by re-publication in paperback form of his book JUSTICE AT WORK, THE HUMAN SIDE OF THE LAW. He has also written a number of other books, the most recent being, DECADE OF DEVELOPMENT, THE CHALLENGE OF THE UNDERDEVELOPED NATIONS (Coward-McCann, N.Y., 1967).

ARNOLD KAUFMAN

Is an Associate Professor of Philosophy at the University of Michigan, where he is interested in Social and Political Philosophy, the Philosophy of Law, the Philosophy of Social Science, and the Philosophy of Mind. He has published many professional articles, and his book, RADICAL LIBERALISM: THEORY AND PRACTICE is scheduled for fall publication. His education was in New York City, at City College and Columbia University, and he has been a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Science (1953-54) and a Visiting Professor at Tuskegee Institute, Alabama, (1965-1966). He has long been active in civil rights, and was one of the founders of the teach-in movement.

VELMA LINFORD

Special Assistant to the Associate Director of VISTA, served on the VISTA Task Force, and was the Director of Rural Projects and Acting Associate Director of Project Development. As such, she was directly involved in the placement of VISTA's first 1000 volunteers. She was previously Wyoming State Superintendent of Schools (1955-1963), and represented Wyoming on the Board of Directors of the National Education Association. She was on the Executive Committee of this organization, and served also as national president of the Department for Rural Education, and as educational consultant to the Department of Defense and the Extension Service of the Department of Agriculture. Her awards include the Gold Key Award for Distinguished Service to Wyoming Education, the Honorary Presswoman Award, and the Wyoming Distinguished Alumna Award. The American Cancer Society awarded her a bronze medal for cancer control, and she has been recognized as a leading Wyoming woman by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson. At the Atlantic Congress for NATO nations, she helped draft the Atlantic Charter.

RAMA MEHTA

One of the first two women to enter the Indian Foreign Service, is a sociologist, trained in India, who is concerned with changing values in a traditional Indian society. She has had a children's book published, with another in the press, and is currently preparing a book related to her special interests. She quit the Indian Foreign Service when her husband, also a diplomat, was posted abroad.

DANIEL MERKEL

Executive Vice President of the Butcher Polish Company, began his business career with a California-based paint manufacturer, where he received extensive training in the operations of a small business. He then became associated with another paint manufacturing firm, spending six years as sales representative in Northern California. During this time he met Mr. Charles Butcher, of whose request he joined the Butcher Polish Company. He is a member of the Executive Committee of The Lazy Eight, and Director and Clerk of the Kalliroscope Corporation.

DONALD N. MICHAEL

Professor of psychology at the University of Michigan, was formerly a Resident Fellow of the Institute for Policy Studies in Washington, D.C., Mr. Michael was educated at Harvard and the University of Chicago and throughout his professional career has combined an interest in the physical and social sciences. He has served as an advisor on attitude research on national science policy for the National Science Foundation and has done extensive work on the Polaris submarine and on civil defense problems. From 1959 to 1961 he was Senior Staff Member of the Brookings Institution in Washington, where he directed a study for NASA on the social implication of peaceful space activities. He then became Director of the Peace Research Institute in Washington. One of Dr. Michael's recent books, THE NEXT GENERATION, was published by Random House in 1963.

MICHAEL MICHAELIS

Is consultant to the White House Office of Science and Technology and manager of the Washington office of the Arthur L. Little Company, Inc. A graduate of the University of London, Mr. Michaelis has worked at the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company Ltd., of England for 14 years. During World War II he worked on the joint Anglo-American radar development program. Prior to coming to the United States in 1951, he headed the Physics Division of the Radiochemical Center of the U.K. Atomic Authority. At Arthur D. Little, Inc., Mr. Michaelis has helped to develop the company's international management consulting activities. In 1961 Mr. Michaelis joined the staff of the White House with the principal responsibility of stimulating America's economic growth through technological innovation. He is a consultant to Congressional committees and to the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development in Paris.

RUTH GRUBER MICHAELS

Hos made 14 trips to Israel, from which have come her books, ISRAEL WITHOUT TEARS, SCIENCE AND THE NEW NATIONS, DESTINATION PALESTINE: THE STORY OF THE HAGANAH SHIP EXODUS 1947, and her recent ISRAEL TODAY: LAND OF THE MANY NATIONS. She has contributed articles to LOOK, READER'S DIGEST, THIS WEEK, MADEMOISELLE, COMMENTARY, COLLIERS, THE NATION, and THE NEW REPUBLIC, and the film "Exodus" was based partly on her original story "Exodus 1947." During World War II, she was Special Assistant to Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, whom she represented in Alaska, and as part of a special mission assigned by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, she helped to return the 1,000 "Oswego Refugees" from Europe to Oswego, New York. Her recent observations of War Crimes trials in Germany and Austria will be treated in an article scheduled for publication in April 15th issue of SATURDAY REVIEW.

JOHN MIDGLEY

Washington correspondent for the ECONOMIST, was born in Manchester, England, and is a graduate of Trinity College, Cambridge. He was a member of the editorial staff of THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN for five years before serving with the British Army 1940-46, ending his service on the staff of the Control Commission for Germany. He then rejoined THE GUARDIAN as a correspondent in Germany and as editorial writer on German questions. In 1948 he became art assistant editor for industry and trade for THE ECONOMIST, a position he held for three years before joining THE LONDON TIMES in 1951 as editorial writer on foreign affairs. He returned to Germany in 1954 and 1955 as Bonn correspondent for the TIMES. He rejoined THE ECONOMIST in 1956 as foreign editor and in that capacity remained based in London for eight years, although he traveled a great deal in Europe, the middle East, North Africa, and North America. At present he is their Washington correspondent. He has also contributed weekly columns to the LONDON SUNDAY TIMES and broadcast on international affairs in England, Germany and the United States.

ALBANY FREDERICKA JILL MILLER

Has been active in the theater since her college days at Hunter College, when she toured during vacations with the Denishawn Dancers, and became a featured dancer with the Louise Baylis Group. She has organized and managed the non-profit Trial Stages, Inc., the Putnam County Playhouse, and several theatrical production businesses; one of her many summer seasons was given special recognition by Dag Hamerskjold. She has toured with several notional companies, including "The Shrike" and "You Can't Take It With You." She has taught drama at St. Joseph's College for Women (Brooklyn) and the Philadelphia Dance Academy, and she has served as a career consultant with the American Negro Theater. Since 1960 her activities have broadened to include fundraising campaigns, owner-manager of real estate, market research, real-estate appraisal, public relations, extension-of-employment surveys concerned with regional theater, and the promotion of Asiatic Arts. Since 1933 she has been a member of Actor's Equity, and has served this organization on its Racial Integration Committee.

JOHN M. MOGEY

Was born in Ireland and took his university degrees in Ireland (Queen's University, Belfast) and England (Oxford) before coming to the United States to "pursue post-doctoral studies at the University of Chicago and Columbia University. He has taught at Queen's University, the University of Reading (England), Oxford University, the University of Colorado, Vanderbilt University, and at Boston University, where he now heads the Department of Sociology and Anthropology. He has published a score of articles in sociological journals, and five books. He founded the Oxford Sociological Society: Oxford Census Tract Committee, and has served in executive positions on a large number of professional organizations. His research concerns the impact of geography, neighborhood, housing, and family upon an individual.

JIRI NEHNEVAJSA

Hos recently completed these project directorships: "Project Outcomes," sponsored by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research; "Studies of Civil Defense and Cold War Attitudes," sponsored by the Office of Civil Defense; "Project Futures," sponsored by the Special Operations Research Office. He is now Chairman of the Department of Sociology at the University of Pittsburgh, having previously taught at the University of Colorado and Columbia University. He was born in Czechoslovakia and educated in Europe. He is co-author of MESSAGE DIFFUSION, and has contributed chapters to numerous books. He is a member of the Civil Defense Advisory Committee of the National Academy of Science, on the Executive Board of the Inter-University Program in Institution Building, an honorary member of the Inter-American Defense College, a member of scientific advisory board of CONSAD Research Corporation, chairman of the international board of directory of National Research of Colombia, and a miernbro correspondiente of the Institute de Estudios Politices of the University of Madrid.

YUZURU OKADA

President of the Japanese Society of Educational Sociology, has written eight books, the best known of which are, in English translation, FAMILY IN PRIMITIVE SOCIETY (1942) and FUNDAMENTAL PROBLEMS OF SOCIAL ANTHROPOLOGY (1959). His undergraduate degree and doctorate ore both from the University of Tokyo, and he has taught at Taihoku Imperial University (Formosa), Tokyo Higher Normal School, Tokyo Bunrika University, Tokyo Kyoiku University, the University of Michigan, the University of Hawaii, and the University of Texas, where he is now a visiting Professor of Anthropology.

FRANZ OPPENHEIMER

International lawyer associated with Fowler, Leva, Hawes and Symington, Washington, is a native of Germany who was educated at the International School of Geneva, University of Chicago, University of Grenoble, and Yale Law School. While at Yale Law School, he was editor of YALE LAW REVIEW. From 1945-46 he served as clerk to Thomas Swan of the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York, and from 1947-57 he was associated with the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. Since 1957 he has been in private practice in Washington. Mr. Oppenheimer has been admitted to the bars of New York and Washington and to the Supreme Court of United States.

WILLIAM R. POLK

Director of the newly founded Adlai Stevenson Institute of International Affairs, has written extensively on Near Eastern affairs. Among his writings are MIDDLE EASTERN STUDENTS IN POLITICS (1950), WHAT THE ARABS THINK (1952), PERSPECTIVE OF THE ARAB WORLD (1956), BACKDROP TO TRAGEDY: THE STRUGGLE FOR PALESTINE (1957), THE OPENING OF SOUTH LEBANON (1963), THE UNITED STATES AND THE ARAB WORLD (1965). He has two additional books in press. He was educated at Harvard University and Oxford University; he has taught at Harvard University and served four years as a member of the Policy Planning Council of the Department of State. He has been awarded four Rockefeller Foundation Fellowships and a Guggenheim Fellowship, and is a member of numerous professional organizations.

ISIDOR I. RABI

Physicist, is a native of Austria, who came to the United States during infancy. He holds the degree of Bachelor of Chemistry (Cornell) and Ph.D. (Columbia), and has done graduate work in Munich, Copenhagen, Hamburg, Leipsig, Zurich. He has received honorary degrees from Princeton, Harvard, Williams, University of Birmingham, Clark, Adelphi College, Franklin Marshall College, L.H.D. Hebrew Union College, Oklahoma City University, and Yeshiva University. He has received a number of prizes for his work in the physical sciences and for studies of radio frequency spectra of atoms and molecules. He has served on the faculties of the City College of New York, Columbia University, the University of Michigan, Stanford, and M.I.T. From 1940 through 1945 he was Director of the Radiation Laboratory at M.I.T., and from 1952 to 1956 Chairman of the General Advisory Committee of the Atomic Energy Commission. Dr. Rabi has been decorated on numerous occasions; he is the author of MY LIFE AND TIMES AS A PHYSICIST (1960), and a very large number of articles published in scientific journals.

STANLEY FOSTER REED

Is an inventor, writer, lecturer and businessman. He is the founder and president of the Reed Research, Institute for creative studies, whose present effort is directed toward the encouragement of entrepreneurial activities in depressed areas. He is also the editor and publisher of MERGERS AND ACQUISITIONS, THE JOURNAL OF CORPORATE VENTURE. In 1945 Reed founded Reed Research, Inc., now known as American Scientific Corporation. In 1955 he founded LogEtronics. Reed was building electronic computers in 1948, hydrofoils, transistors, and learning and teaching machines in 1950, and started the revolution in postal automation with the first contract ever granted by the Post Office Department.

ALVIN ROSEMAN

Associate Dean of the Graduote School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Pittsburg, hos for over thirty years been active in local, state, federal, and international operations. He has been Executive Officer of the Social Security Boord, Assistant to the Federal Security Administrator, Assistant Executive Director of the War Manpower Security Administrator, Assistant Executive Director of the War Manpower Commission, Deputy Chief of the Balkan and Middle East Missions of UNRRA, U. S. State Department Representative to the International Agencies at Geneva, Deputy Chief of the Marshall Plan Mission to Greece, Chief of the U. S. Economic Aid Mission to Cambodia, and Regional Director of the U. S. Economic Aid Program for the For. East. He has also served as delegate, permanent delegate, or as consultant to many international organizations, and before coming to Pittsburgh he taught at the Catholic University of America and served also as Assistant Director General of the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization in Paris. He has been twice cited for distinguished public service.

SAM ROSENBERG

Is a documentary film producer, who is currently writing articles for LIFE magazine. (See Feb. 24, 1967 issue, "Confessions of a Trivialist.") He is also writing on autobiography, commissioned by Prentice-Hall, and preparing two documentary films. A photographer for over 20 years, Mr. Rosenberg has been a foreign correspondent, covering the Arab-Israel War in 1948. He was also the Chief Photographer for the UN Conference in San Francisco, and in 1946-47 served as photographic adviser to General Clay in Berlin. From 1949 to 1952 he was Chief Photographer of the Marshall Plan. Mr. Rosenberg, whose work has been published in LIFE, COLLIER'S, FORTUNE, CORONET, PAGEANT, NEWSWEEK, and other outstanding American and European Journals, says he is a collector of fifty different categories of things, ranging from the near-ridiculous to the near-sublime. -

HERBERT I. SCHILLER

Research Professor in Business and Economics at the University of Illinois and Editor of the QUARTERLY REVIEW OF ECONOMICS, is concerned with Communications and Economic Development, Economic Geography, and Comparative Economic Systems. He has taught at the City College of New York, the Pratt Institute (Brooklyn), the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and Brown University, and he has worked for foundations, in government service, and in several editorial assignments. He is a member of numerous professional societies, and has published over a score of articles in journals such as THE BULLETIN OF ATOMIC SCIENTISTS, THE NATION, THE ANTIOCH REVIEW, THE PROGRESSIVE, THE LIBRARY JOURNAL, CHALLENGE, SOCIAL SCIENCE, as well as more specialized journals in the field of economics. He is currently engaged in research concerning communications and economic development, a project sponsored by the Center for International Comparative Studies. He served during the second world war in the Army for three years, editing base newspapers at Algiers and Casablanca and attaining the terminal rank of corporal.

EDGAR VON SCHMIDT-PAULI

Serves in Boston as German Consul-General. After completing high school in Berlin, he studied at the Lyceum Alpinum (Zuoz, Switzerland) and then at Exeter (Devonshire, England), and he completed his training in Law at Berlin and Munich. After practicing law in Starnberg (Bavaria), and attaining a Doctor of Law at the University of Munich, he was drafted for military service, attaining the rank of major and being assigned the command of a cavalry reconnaissance detachment. He was captured by the Red Army, and held five years in the Soviet Union, until April 1950, when he returned to law practice in Munich. He taught at the Law School of the University of Virginia under an Exchange Program sponsored by the State Department, and then entered Foreign Service in 1953. He has served in the Legal Section of the Foreign Office (Bonn), as Counsellor of the German Embassy (Oslo, Norway), as Deputy Director of the Nato-Desk (Bonn), and, before being appointed to his present position, as Director of the Executive Office of the State Secretary of the Foreign Office (Bonn). He has often lectured on "The Russians—Their Lives and Their Opinions."

GEORGE H. N. SETON-WATSON

Is a professor of Russian history at the School of Slavonic and East European Studies at the University of London. During 1940-41 he was attached to the British Legations in Roumania and Yugoslavia; he served with the Special Forces G.H.Q. in the Middle East for the next three years. From 1946 to 1951 he was Fellow and Praelector in Politics at University College, Oxford. In 1957-58 he was a Visiting Professor at Columbia University, and in 1963-64 he was a Fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences at Stanford. Mr. Seton-Watson is the author of EASTERN EUROPE BETWEEN THE WARS (1945), THE EAST EUROPEAN REVOLUTION (1950), THE DECLINE OF IMPERIAL RUSSIA (1952), THE PATTERN OF COMMUNIST REVOLUTION (1953), NEITHER WAR NOR PEACE (1960), THE NEW IMPERIALISM (1961), and NATIONALISM AND COMMUNISM (1963). His recreations ore travel and ornithology.

FAHRAN SHUBEILAT

Ambassador of Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan to the United States, was born in a small town close to Petra in Jordan. He attended elementary school there and high school in Amman. In 1935 he graduated from the American University of Beirut, where he majored in Arab-Moslem history and education. In 1946, after Jordan's independence, he was appointed to the foreign service, and in 1948 he became the Ambassador to Lebanon; shortly thereafter the Ambassador to India. In 1951 he was the Chief of the Royal Cabinet of King Abdalloh. In 1952 he served as Mayor of Amman, and in 1955-56 he was Minister of Defense in Jordan, becoming Ambassador to Germany later in 1956. In 1957 he was Ambassador to Iran, and in 1958 through 1965 he was Ambassador to Tunisia, Morocco, Libya, and Algeria. Ambassador Shubeilat arrived in the United States to serve in Washington as Ambassador in 1965.

H. PRESCOTT SLEEPER, JR.

Is a graduate of Harvard who serves as a technical specialist with the Ryan Aeronautical Company in-San Diego. He has been involved in a wide variety of scientific research in the field of physics. In the period 1952-55 he initiated bubble chamber development and design in physics at Brookhaven where he contributed to the design of the first major reactor in the country devoted to medical research. Later he became a staff member of the Hopkins Lab of General Atomic Division of General Dynamics Corporation at San Diego. He was the Assistant Physicist in charge of the reactor development facility participating in the first pulsed operation of a commercial reactor, and participated in the design of several reactor installations, such as the one at Cornell University. In 1963 he joined the Radiation Engineering Section of the Astronautics Division of General Dynamics, where he developed new methods of using light-weight shielding for the protection of manned satellites from penetration of high energy electrons in the Van Allen Belt. In 1965 he became associated with the Electronic and Space Systems Division of Ryan Aeronautical Company, where he is involved in studies for the development of models for the interaction of the troposphere and ionosphere including solar terrestrial effects. This work is leading to interesting outlooks for improved weather prediction and new methods for weather and climate control.

STANISLAW JAN STARON

Was educated in Poland and Belgium; from 1946 to 1950 he attended the University of St. Andrews in Scotland, where he received the B.A. and M.A. with honors and the Diploma of Education in 1950. In 1953 he attended the University of Minnesota. Professor Staron was a participant at the Salzburg Seminar in American Studies in 1952, and from 1953-55 he taught at the University of Minnesota. From 1957 to 1961 he was on the faculty at the University of Colorado, and since that time he has been a member of the Department of Political Science of the University of Vermont. Professor Staron has been awarded Fulbright Travel Grants and Ford Foundation Teaching Instructorships.

MRS. NEWELL STEWARD

Has been since 1961 President of Pierce College (Greece), after having served the College as Director of its School of Social Welfare. Her degrees from the University of California (1930) were in English Literature and journalism, but she became interested in social work through volunteer work with the Palama settlement in Honolulu, Hawaii. After the death of her husband in 1938, she worked for the •State Relief Administration in California, and then with the State Employment Commission, the Los Angeles Housing Council, and the War Relocation Authority. She also taught in an Ozark high school before moving to Greece in 1955.

ARLO TATUM

Is a member of the War Resisters International Council, o Director of PEACE NEWS (London), a member of the American Friends Service Committee on Nonviolence, an Executive Committee member of the War Resisters League, and a representative of the Council of Turn Toward Peace and the Consultative Peace Council. He has been employed by the American Friends Service Committee, as Executive Secretary of the War Resisters League, and as General Secretary for the War Resisters International. He is currently Executive Secretary of the Central Committee for Conscientious Objectors. He attended William Penn College, (Iowa) and studied voice at the American Conservatory of Music (Chicago). He song professionally for many years in a career interrupted by two terms of imprisonment, first following a 3V2 year sentence, at eighteen, for "failure and refusal to register," and then again in 1949, when he served most of a 1 V6 year sentence for the same offense.

NORMAN THOMAS

Was born in Marion, Ohio, November 20, 1884. He attended Morion High School, and had a paper route delivering the MARION STAR, published by Worren G. Harding. He

Was educated at Bucknell and Princeton, graduating in 1905, valedictorian of his class. He worked at the Spring Street Settlement in New York City, and in 1907 became Assistant Pastor of Christ Church, in a New York tenement district. In 1910 he married Violet Stewart. He was ordained, and given a parish in East Harlem, which he resigned when his pacifistic views in 1918 caused its supporters to abandon their financial support. He helped to found the American Civil Liberties Union, and was active in the Socialist Party, taking part in many free-speech fights and in other struggles supporting the rights of workers to organize. In 1935, he led in action against the Ku Klux Klan and the Tampa, Florida, police, who were responsible for the murder, by flogging, of Joseph Shoemaker. He ran for many offices on the Socialist Party ticket, including running six times for the Presidency. He is Chairman of the Post War World Council and Co-chairman of Turn Toward Peace. Among his committee memberships are The League for Industrial Democracy, the Workers Defense League, The National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy, The Inter-American Association for Democracy and Freedom, and the National Sharecroppers Fund. He writes a column twice a week, and appears frequently on radio and television. He is a member of the American Newspaper Guild. Among his books and pamphlets are THE CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR IN AMERICA, APPEAL TO THE NATIONS, AMERICA'S WAY OUT, AS I SEE IT, HUMAN EXPLOITATION, A SOCIALIST'S FAITH, THE TEST OF FREEDOM, PREREQUISITES FOR PEACE, GREAT DISSENT, AND SOCIALISM RE-EXAMINED.

WILLIAM H. WAINWRIGHT

President of Geometries Inc., architects and engineers, received his training in architecture at Cornell, the Illinois Institute of Technology, and M.I.T. He has worked on development of prototype geodesic rigid radomes in association with R. Buckminster Fuller (1952-53); has done research on plastics in housing; and as Principal of Geodesies Inc., 1954-56, has worked on the design and administration of DEW Line radome production. Since 1956, he has been President of Geometries Inc., Cambridge, Mass. In addition, he teaches at the Harvard Graduate School of Design.

RICHARD J. WALLACE

Director General of the Atlantic Council, began his career as a journalist on the MEMPHIS PRESS-SCIMITAR and KNOXVILLE NEWS SENTINEL, in which positions he won numerous State Press Association awards for editorials and public service. During the second World War, he served in army counterintelligence, rising to the position of Chief, Office of Technical Information, where he conceived and implemented a public relations program covering prisoner-of-war handling, military police operations, and military government. From 1951-59, he was Administrative Assistant to the late Senator Estes Kefauver, and he served also as Deputy Director of the Democratic Advisory Council. He has attended six NATO Parliamentarians' Conferences as a member of the U. S. staff or as an observer, and he was Executive Director of the U. S. Committee for the Atlantic Congress, Executive Director of the U. S. Citizen's Commission on NATO, and Secretary General of the Atlantic Convention of NATO Nations (Pans, 1962).

DAVID WATT

Who was educated in, Marlborough School and Hertford College, Oxford, where he studied Classics and Philosophy, served as dramatic critic of the SPECTATOR from 1956-58. From 1958-61 he was diplomatic correspondent of THE SCOTSMAN, and for the following two years European correspondent of THE DAILY HERALD. From 1963-65 he was political columnist of THE SPECTATOR. He is now Washington correspondent of the LONDON FINANCIAL TIMES.

BRIAN EDWARD URQUHART

Who was educated at Westminster and Christ Church, Oxford, served from 1939-1945 as British Army Officer in Infantry and Parachute regiments. Since 1946, he has held various positions in the United Nations, including those of Personal Assistant to Mr. Trygve Lie, the Secretary General (1946-49); Official in the Executive Office of the Secretary General of the UN (1949); Secretary of the Collective for Special Political Affairs (1954); Executive Secretary of the Preparatory Commission of the International Atomic Energy Agency (1957); and Executive Secretary of the 2nd UN International Conference on Peaceful Uses of Atomic Energy in 1958. Mr. Urquhart is currently the principal Officer in the Office of Under-Secretary for Special Political Affairs in the UN.

ADAM YARMOLINSKY

Professor of Law at Harvard University, was formerly Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense, International Security Affairs. Mr. Yarmolinsky was born in New York City and received his B.A. degree from Harvard in 1943. Following service in the Army Air Force (1943-46), he received his LL.B. from Yale in 1948. He served as law clerk for judge Charles E. Clark, U.S. Court of Appeals for the 2nd circuit (1948-49), and was in law practice 1949-50. From 1950-51, he was law clerk for Justice Stanley F. Reed of the United States Supreme Court; he then went into practice with Cleary, Gottlieb, Friendly, and Ball. From 1955 to 1957 Mr. Yarmolinsky was Director of the Washington office and later Secretary, of the Fund for the Republic; following this, he served as Public Affairs Editor for Doubleday and Company. He joined the Department of Defense in 1961, and served there in various capacities until last year.

MOSHE YEGAR

Serves in Los Angeles as Consul, representing Israel at the Consulate General. He was born in Buenos Aires in 1930, but his family immigrated to Israel in 1935, and he received his format education there, obtaining degrees in Islamic Culture and Political Science at the Hebrew University. He served as a member of the "Hagannah" underground movement, and from 1948-1951 served with the Israel Defense Forces. His diplomatic career began in 1956, when he joined the Ministry for Foreign Affairs, working until 1960 as Second Secretary in Bucharest, and then from 1960-3 in Rangoon, Burma. He worked next in Israel, with the Asian Department of the Ministry for Foreign Affairs until 1965, when he went to Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, to manage an Israeli commercial firm there.